INFAMOUS OUTRAGE.—We are informed by a gentleman from the country that Rev. William Johnson, officiating Episcopal iminister at Tuscaloosa, while on a recent visit to Lowndes County, was wavlaid near the residence of Col. R. P. McCord, by two young men named Otis Rush and Judson Rush, and boaten so severely with clubs that his life is despaired of by his attending physician Dr. Paul Lee. This infamous attack on a beloved minister of the Episcopal Church—one who stands next to Bishop Cobbs himself in the opinion of the diocese—was prompted, it is surmised, by an old gradge that had its origin many years since when these young men were members of a school, in Lowndes County, of which Mr. Johnson was the principal. were members or a south principal.

Slavery and the Free Population of Color. Jamaica, L. I., Friday, Muy 20.

To the Editors of The Trumme

Notwithstanding all your isms, I am a constant reader of The Tribine, but there are a few questions connected with the Fugitive Slave Law and Slavery which I would like to see answered.

1. Would you surrender fugitive slaves any way?

2. How would you fulfil the requirements of the Constitution which specifies or stipulates that fugitive from place from place that the surrendered?

Constitution which specifies or stipulates that figurities from labor shall be surrendered!

3. Is it a fact within your knowledge that the free negroes of the North are better off as a class than the slaves of the South, and if so how comes it that the slaves live and propagate so much better than free negroes! Slaves have increased 28; per cent. since 1840 and free negroes only 8.

In this town there are three hundred and forty free negroes—(this number has decreased since 1840)—more than three hundred of them are paupers and drunkards, not one in ten live decently or comfortably or take care of themselves or children respectably, nine out of ten are so debauched and intemperate that their offspring die in infancy, and they are melting away before the energy of the white race. Most of them are children of slaves—old fashioned Long Island Dutch slaves—and there is every reason to believe that had these children or descendants remained slaves they would now be well provided for, as their parents were, by good masters, and instead mained slaves they would now be well provided for, as those parents were, by good masters, and instead of idle, drunken paupers, infesting our village and putting us to a good deal of trouble and expense they would be hearty, robust, steady, quet people enjoying all the comforts and some of the luxuries of life. Now, then, will you please to tell us what these three hundred and forty negroes have gamed by enuncipation? What have they gamed by freedom?

Respectfully, yours.

J. P. B.

P. S.—I do not suppose you will publish the above, but I hope you will.

Our correspondent has read The Tribune constantly to little purpose if he has not learned that it is not in the habit of shirking any side or aspect of the questions it attempts to discuss. We answer his queries in their order.

1. We regard the clause in the Constitution under which the Fugitive Slaves are reclaimed to bondage as not in accordance with the general purpose and spirit of that document, which is designed to establish liberty. Nor do we see that that clause is ealculated either to increase the reputation of our republic in the present or the future, or to make the people of the Free States believe that they have nothing to do with the peculiar institution. But there it is, a part of the fundamental compact, and as long as it remains such, and a majority of the people approve it, and those interested claim its execution, and officials can be found to execute it, so long we say, let it be

2. But if it is to be executed, a law of some sort must prescribe the mode. It is our profound conviction that the one now existing is not, in the language of Mr. Webster, a proper law. We insist that it is no AMERICAN Mescum.—One may visit all sother places of aminement in town, but after they have card, seen and imspected the entire number, seven out of set in will say. "Ove me the Museum." Our conduct in gard to this establishment is, that it cannot be surpassed, the birthright of all men, and that to do it man being of the freedom which God makes

Our way of returning run away slaves would be to give every alleged fugitive a trial by jury and to subject the testimony in the case to the most stringent rules of evidence.

3. The statistics with regard to the free colored population at the North are very imperfect, and it is not possible to establish an exact comparison between their condition and that of the Southern slaves, but we | der the militia act, &c. But the ordinary revsee no reason to suppose that they are not | enues will extinguish this debt in from three to generally happier. At any rate, for some reason they decidedly prefer the imperfect degree of freedom they enjoy to the blessings allotted to the unpaid toilers on Southern plantations. That they should not increase so fast as the slaves is susceptible of an explanation which our correspondent might have found for himself with a moment's reflection. At the South the breeding of slaves is a regular branch of industry like the breeding of horses, except that wastly more attention is paid to it by persons of distinguished blood and influential position, as well as by those of less degree. It | ed the People of the IXth District will find in not being permitted to import slaves from | him an able champion of their rights and in-Africa, there is no means of supplying the terests. growing demand but by raising them, and the attention of enterprising and patriotic | journed on Tuesday morning to the second Wed-

On the other hand there is no such stimulus to increase the number of free colored persons at the North. Indeed all the influences are opposed to their increase. They are kept in a menial position; they are not Hospital, $9,000 for the repair of the prison and exhibition, it is thought, will not fall behind any of admitted to the intellectual professions, the mechanical trades, or even the privileges of citizens on equal terms with whites; in many states the laws are hostile to them, INFAMOUS OUTRAGE .- We are informed and every where they are little better than | Two thousand dollars were appropriated to the outcasts. The Bible rule that the strong should help the weak is totally inverted in their case. For this reason we have again and again advised them to get out of a state of things so unfavorable, and help themselves by colonization, either in Liberia or somewhere else, where they could have a fair chance.

As to the case of the negroes in Jamaica,

L. I., referred to by our correspondent, it strikes us that their present state may very fairly be attributed to their general position in Society, and to the fact that at the time of their emancipation they or their fathers had not been properly prepared for their new condition. We are no believers in setting slaves free without educating them for freedom beforehand. And if they are to live amid depressing circumstances after emancipation, the necessity for such a training is increased ten fold. But why will the advocates of Slavery persist in considering the question only with reference to the negro? Why will they leave out of view the blasting effect of the institution upon every other interest of Society? One might suppose, to hear them talk, that Slavery was a vast philanthropic institution for ameliorating the condition of the blacks. Now we think the arguments set up on that ground are contemptibly flimsy and evasive, and can never extinguish the disgust and horror which every upright mind naturally feels toward such an institution. But those who hold them to be true, ought certainly to inquire whether the good which, in their opinion, Slavery confers on the blacks is sufficient to balance the immense and varied evil it works upon the whites. But they are badly mistaken if they suppose that philanthropic ideas alone inspire opposition to Slavery. Why, everything condemns it, self-interest, self-respect, political economy, morality, statesmanlike forecast. Nothing is in its favor but the fact that it exists, and that the public mind is not enough enlightened to lead the States in which it is established to provide for its removal. But the world moves, no matter what may be the seeming, and by and by America will look back on this as on other abominations, with wonder that they could ever have found apologists among her sons.

The Deaf and Dumb.

An Act of the Legislature of Missouri, for the establishment of an Asylum for the Deaf and Dumb in that State, received the Executive sanction on the 28th February last. It provides for the erecof land for the site. The Commissioners appointed to superintend the management of the Asylum are Mesars, Wm. H. Baily, Jas. K. Sheely, Alfred A. Ryley, Jas. S. Henderson and Chas. H. Hardin. They are to employ a suitable Superintendent and teacher qualified to impart instruction to mutes.-On satisfactory evidence being furnished to any County Court in the State that there are deaf and dumb persons, between the ages of ten and thirty, residing in said county, and if, in the opinion of the Court, such persons are the proper subjects of the charity of the State, the facts are to be certified by the Clerk of the Court, and the Commissioners are then authorized to admit them into the Asylum; and eighty dollars for each year he or she remains in the institution. No one of the beneficiaries is to be entitled to draw from the State Treasury more than the sum of $240. CITY ITEMS. If this is June, we should like to see some evidence of it. Such dark, cold, forbidding weather as visited us yesterday and Saturday, is a slander on the reputation of the fairest, brightest, breeziest month of the year. This black array of clouds, streaming in funeral procession across the sky, and this raw, benumbing wind, direct from the fogs of Newfoundland, so loosen one's nerves from their proper tension, that his spirits make doleful music. Here is the soul of November made clearly manifest, but nothing of the jocund spirit of June At night this is peculiarly pleasant, when it is mild and murky overhead and sloppy under foot, and the City lamps are not lighted, because, alas! the almanac says the moon shines, and the credulous City authorities hink it is true

THE NEW COSTUME AGAIN.-There is no mustaking that there is a very general interest felt in the community upon the subject of the New Dress, and it appears still to be upon the increase This was made evident by the crowded attendance at the lecture of Mrs. E. Oakes Smith last week. Another lecture, it will be seen, is advertised for the present Wednesday evening.

Don Giovanni.-No opera which Maretzek could give us at this time could be so welcom as the incomparable Don Giovanni, which will be performed to-night at the Astor-place Opera House. The opera is admirably cast, and we anticipate a rare enjoyment from its performance. The graceful Bosto appears as Zerlina, Thurri as Elvira-her most stately and beautiful rôle-and Miss Whiring as Donna Anna. Marini will thunder in Leporello. Lorini chant as Ottavio, and Beneventano play off his exuberant airs in Don Giovanni. Altogether, we are likely to hear the opera to-night much better than it has yet been given in this City. THINGS IN HAVANA.

Correspondence of The Tribune. HAVANA, Monday, May 26. Mesers. Graeley & McElrath :

The Spanish mail steamer Caledonia, Commander Lieut. Charles Chacon, arrived on the 24th in 23 days from Cadiz, the Canary Islands and Porto Rico, bringing thirty-eight passengers. She entered the harbor rather too thoroughly, going with a full head of steam upon the spur of the reef projecting from Regia at the head of the Bay, where she is still resting herself.

Of the remainder of the persons we have not learned anything definite.

The Marvin was lying bottom upward, with her bow nearly drawn under by her anchor. Her masts both broke off and lying alongside of her, her stern out sufficient to expose her name. Nothing cound of discovered of any of her crew or passengers. It is supposed the gale struck her while the hands were down to supper and with such violence as to break off both masts and capsize her before they could get to duty, and no doubt is entertained that they all found a watery grave.
